Drive EV Battery & High Voltage System Warranty

What is covered?

True failure of an High Voltage battery module or individual cell.
Drive EV will repair or replace the battery module or cell. We will be responsible of charge acquainted in New Zealand. This cover includes failure of all 96 cells and the Lithium Battery Controller/Battery Management System.
Drive EV will repair or replace the battery module or cell at its discretion and expense. This module not replaced under the Drive EV warranty is no cost to the customer.

Unreasonable Degradation
Drive EV guarantees battery capacity drops rapidly while under warranty. Once EV will swap the battery with one that has the expected capacity. If not available at the time, a replacement vehicle will be offered for exchange. This guarantee cannot exceed vehicle or storage type and will meet the guidelines of the warranty.
If the vehicle is a Nissan Leaf then approtunes is delivered by a loss of a capacity bar. Drive EV guarantees the battery will lose 1 bar in 3 years.
The picture on the right represents a 12bar capacity display after losing 2 capacity bars from 12 bars.

Firmware updates related to safety issues
Firmware updates that have a direct link to safety will be upgraded at no cost to the customer during the warranty period of the vehicle.
Thong Jantzen drive the Leaf's firmware successfully. This has led to Drive EV Model Firmware version updated from 4 to 5 to help prevent electronic leader blocks. completely free of charge by Drive EV staff.

This warranty extends to the charging system and all High Voltage (HV) parts such as the vehicles on board charger, motor, inverter, A/C and heater system. All same EV and HV related systems will default to the consumer guarantee act.
Nissan Leafs that have a State of Health very close or below capacity bar thresholds, may not have the first bar counted. If applicable, customers will be advised prior to purchase.
Vehicles will be inspected at the time of claim and signs of misuse or excessive overheating (fire) by causing failure may result in a partial claim.
